NOTE FOR THE READER

This publication of the Office of the Law Commissioner is an English translation of Law No. 103(I) of 2012 enacted in Greek.

However useful the English translation of the Law is in practice, it does not replace the original text of the Law since only the Greek text of the Law published in the Official Gazette of the Republic of Cyprus is authentic.

The Office of the Law Commissioner shall not be under any liability to any person or organization in respect of any loss or damage, including consequential loss or damage, however caused, which may be incurred or arises directly or indirectly from reliance on information in this publication.

Number 103 (I) of 2012

A LAW TO AMEND THE ANTIQUITIES LAW

The House of Representatives enacts as follows:

1. This Law may be cited as the Antiquities (Amendment) Law, 2012, and shall be read as one with the Antiquities Law (hereinafter referred to as “the principal Law”).
2. Subsection (1) of section 2 of the principal law is amended by the addition, in the appropriate alphabetical order, of the following new terms and definitions:

“metal detectors” (thereinafter “detectors”) means those devices that have the ability to locate one or more kinds of metal on land, subsoil, sea-bed or bottom of rivers, lakes, swamps, or in constructions;

“Detecting or prospecting devices for the exploration of subsoil, sea-bed or bottom” (hereinafter “devices”) means the devices or other methods of natural science and technology that allow the measuring of physical parameters (electric resistance, electric susceptibility, density, temperature and other) and/or the exploration of land, subsoil, sea-bed or bottom of rivers and lakes, in particular, for the discovery of antiquities, ancient ruins, archaeological deposits, shipwrecks on any other variations that have been caused by human intervention”.

3. Subsection (3) of section 4 for the principal Law is hereby amended by the substitution of the sentence “not exceeding one year or to a fine not exceeding one thousand pounds or to both”(third and fourth line) with the sentence “not exceeding three(3)years or to a fine not exceeding thirty thousand Euros (€30.000) or to both”.

4. Section 10 of the principal Law is hereby amended by the substitution of subsection (4) thereof, with the following new section (4):

“(4) Any person in possession of detectors or other devices, without a license in writing obtained by the Director of the Department of Antiquities or/and who uses detectors or other devices within such areas other than those that may be specified by the Minister by a notice published in the Official Gazette of the Republic, shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable to imprisonment not exceeding three(3)years or to a fine not exceeding thirty thousand Euros (€30.000) or to both such imprisonment and fine:
Amendment of the principal law by the addition of new section 34B.

Provided that the provisions of this section shall not apply to-

a. a person who uses a detector or device in his capacity as a member of the Public Service or a public corporate body or the security forces or the armed forces of the Republic of Cyprus in exercising his duties;

b. a person who uses detector or device for the purposes of his profession and at his place of work; The burden of proof shall lie with the said person;

Provided further that, the Minister shall, by a notice in the Official Gazette of the Republic, specify the areas wherein the use of detectors or other devices is permitted, having taken taking into consideration the views of the Department of Antiquities and consulted with representatives of the University of Cyprus, the Technological University of Cyprus, the Association of Cypriot Archaeologists and the Cyprus Metal Detecting Society.

5. The principal Law is hereby amended by the addition, immediately after section 34A, of the following new section 34A:-

"Regulations for the supply in the market, the license for possession and use of metal detectors or/ and devices and any other matter related to the discovery of antiquities by the use of detectors or other devices, shall be regulated by Regulations made by the Council of Ministers and published in the Official Gazette of the Republic.".
